

Keith Haynes

Born in London (1963), Keith Haynes' work is a playful and often nostalgic exploration of popular culture, and in particular, popular music culture from his past to the present day.

Keith's work is noteworthy for his interesting choice of materials, creating works from the 'clutter' of pop culture - button badges, CDs or, more uniquely, vinyl records. Whether it's a graphically iconic portrait or a meaningful song lyric, each piece is created from original vinyl records chosen to enhance the subject matter, Haynes considers the subject and the object to be of equal importance within his practice.

"My introduction to art was through the graphic design of people like Jamie Reid and Ray Lowry which I collected on records sleeves, T-shirts and badges. These were the people that inspired me to go to art school. 30 years on, in a digital world where music is losing touch with the visceral and visual, my work explores this populist art form - album sleeves, record labels, badges and, of course, beautiful, black vinyl - not only as its subject but also as its raw material." KEITH HAYNES

On leaving Harrow College with a BA(hons) Haynes worked as a designer and director at the BBC where his work featured in some of the most influential music and arts programmes of the past 20 years. In 1993 a selection of his video work was included in an exhibition of experimental and avant-garde television design held at the ICA.

His current work has been exhibited extensively in the UK and abroad and can be found in private collections in Europe, America, Hong Kong and Singapore.
